During the Carolina Union’s Fall Training, 130 student employees were asked to capture what Excellence in Action looked like to them through the lens of a disposable camera. Each day of training was designated to align with each of the four Excellence in Action values: Honor, Dynamic Learning, Community Engagement, and Personal Responsibility. After learning about the facets of each value, the students were charged with taking photos on campus throughout the day that resonated with them.

Excellence in Action is a Student Affairs initiative for all students to develop an understanding of critical skills and values necessary to succeed here on campus and beyond. Becki Santiago, the Carolina Union Events & Information Manager, will code the photo data to report back to Student Affairs leadership.
