

Womxn of Worth Conference

Mission

Each year, Student Life and Leadership collaborates on an annual Spring conference in collaboration with The Womxn of Worth Initiative (W) and other campus and academic departments at UNC and surrounding universities to create opportunities for networking, mutual learning, and community-building. The Womxn of Worth Initiative (W) creates and sustains a community that centers empowering underrepresented racial and ethnic populations that will promote academic preparedness, holistic student wellness and success, identity development, and community at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Details on the 2023 conference will be announced in late Fall 2022. Contact Natasha Young at natasha.young@unc.edu ^[1] or Jordan Davis at davisjor@ad.unc.edu ^[2] with questions!

This program welcomes all participants regardless of age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or veteran status. In particular, we encourage individuals, regardless of gender, gender expression, gender identity, and sex, to participate in this program
