

Organizations

All fraternities and sororities at Carolina who fall under the advising of Office of Fraternity and Sorority Life are governed by student-run councils who plan educational programs, develop guidelines and policies and hold organizations accountable to these expectations through judicial processes, oversee recruitment and intake processes and, moreover, provide a support network and voice to the University and local community. Comprising 21% of the undergraduate student population, the fraternity and sorority community unites under these governing councils to improve the overall intellectual and educational campus climate. Carolina is also home to two Fraternity and Sorority Honor Societies, which recognize and induct to membership outstanding leaders and scholars within our community.
