FallFest Welcomes Students with Fun, Food, Free Swag

Get ready for a night of food, fun, and giveaways! Hosted by the Carolina Union and now in its 23rd year, FallFest has become an important tradition at Carolina by providing a celebration that introduces new and returning students to the many opportunities to get involved in campus life through student organizations, academic departments, and campus recreation.

Approximately 25,000 people are expected to attend, with about 400 student organizations, university departments, and sports clubs on hand to meet students and attract new membership. This year's event will also feature the UNC Men's Soccer team playing an exhibition match against rival NC State at the newly-renovated soccer stadium. FallFest is open to the entire University community, and starts immediately following New Student Convocation, held nearby at Carmichael Arena.

Who: New and returning students,

When: Sunday, August 18, 2019 immediately following New Student Convocation about 8:15 p.m.

Where: Hooker Fields, UNC-CH campus

Cost: FREE!
