

A Message from the Carolina Union Executive Director

Carolina Union Executive Director Alexandra Marchesano offers words of encouragement as we enter the home stretch of the spring semester.

Hello! It's been a few weeks since we had to adjust to new ways of learning and working for the remainder of the Spring semester at UNC. This was not how we wanted to spend the past few weeks, but we wanted our UNC community to know how proud we are of the adjustments you have made and the effort you are putting in to finishing out this semester and looking toward the future.

As we work through the unknowns, I wanted to take time to send a hello and check in with you. We miss having our building filled with students passing the time as well as our student employees who work hard to make our services and programs successful. Please know all students are valued and missed.

The University has worked to develop a list of resources that are available to you for many different situations and you can find that information here COVID-19 Student Care Hub ^[1].

We look forward to returning to business as usual, and until that happens, keep in touch with us by reading the State of the Carolina Union ^[2] newsletter and following the Union and Student Life and Leadership (SLL) social media sites. There are many virtual opportunities for all students from career discussions to leadership trainings ^[3] happening in the next few weeks. CUAB is also sharing ways to connect students with fun activities on their social media sites.

As we move forward, stay healthy, stay positive and we will see each other soon. We miss you. I hope you all have a happy and safe Spring Holiday!
