Seteena Turner, Program Assistant

Originally from Brooklyn, NY, Seteena Turner ventured to Chapel Hill, NC after falling in love with the Carolina Blue skies and pride and joy of being a Tar Heel. An alumna of the University, Seteena graduated in 2018 with a BA in Journalism and Communication Studies and a minor in Hispanic Studies and is currently pursuing her Master of Accounting degree at UNC Kenan-Flagler Business School. Seteena is no stranger to the Carolina Union. During undergrad, she co-founded UNC Spark ? a first-year retreat that provides resources to women of color to assist them in their journey to and throughout their time at Carolina - which is now housed in the office of Student life and Leadership. Seteena currently serves as Program Assistant in the Office of Fraternity and Sorority Life where she assists in developing campus and community wide programs, leadership retreats and communicates with students and families regarding membership in a Greek lettered organization. Seteena hopes to use this experience to combine her love for the art of communication and relationship building with the business acumen she has developed during her master's program to ultimately become a Media Business Consultant. She has passions for women empowerment (specifically women of color) and leadership development and believes that the knowledge and experiences gained while at UNC will allow her to make a large, systemic impact on underrepresented populations on campus, in the media and in the world as a whole. In her free time, Seteena can be found sporting the latest athleisure fashion at a sporting event of some sort, singing some Kirk Franklin or Jhene Aiko and traveling to explore a different country with her family or closest friends.
